Biking school kids almost hit

This is just a note to alert parents whose children ride their bikes and cross the intersection at 56 Street and Indian school. In the past week, I have seen three kids almost get hit because they are not watching for traffic and they are riding their bikes full speed as they enter the crosswalk. It's just a matter of time before someone is seriously hurt or killed. Please talk with your kids and keep them safe.

I can attest to this personally. While making a left turn at this intersection a boy on a bike appeared out of nowhere. Our eyes lock as I slammed on the brakes. Fortunately nothing happened but it was only a split second away from tragedy.

Yes! Parents please review biking safety with your kids. Every morning I see several children riding on the wrong side of the street to go to Ingleside. I know people making rights are "supposed" to look in both directions, but they don't. And at 50th place there's a tree that really blocks the sight of the bike lane

We were going up the side street to our house on Saturday afternoon and a young boy around 12yo appeared. He managed to turn to the left and just roll onto the road a foot or so. But my husband locked up the brakes, the kids had zero intentions of stopping and looking before entering the road way.

I'm always so worried about the kids in the neighborhood riding their bikes bc so many of them ride on the wrong side. Please reinforce that for their safety they need to ride with traffic.

Thank
